QM Systems partnership with UK-NSI Co., Ltd

QM Systems, a division of PipeHawk, is proud to announce the establishment of a partnership with UK-NSI Co., Ltd (“UK NSI”). UK-NSI, the European manufacturing centre of Nippon Seiki, is a world leading supplier of vehicle instrumentation systems, supplying a wide range of industries including automotive, motorcycle, marine and many others. QM Systems is working with UK-NSI to design, manufacture and deliver assembly and test equipment for the manufacture and test of a wide range of instrumentation systems. From receipt of the first order in March 2016, QM Systems has now been contracted to deliver over £500,000 of bespoke engineered systems to UK-NSI, all to be delivered and installed by 31 December 2016.

Gordon Watt, Chairman of PipeHawk commented “This is great news for QM Systems and further demonstrates the capability of the business to win and deliver contracts with Global leaders. QM Systems offers a diverse range of systems and services to its clients and the formation of this partnership between UK-NSI and QM Systems will provide UK-NSI with access to market leading solutions for its test and assembly system requirements. We are very excited by what this partnership will bring to both parties”
